“ God called a warrior to him last night. One of the toughest men I'll never know. Grandpa Larry, your genetics flow through us every time we have to stand with our head up and chest high, no matter what's going on. We know God needed a hard ass and it was time for you to get the rest you deserved. We will miss you and love you. I'm just glad that another guardian angel is watching over us, especially one that takes no crap. RIP grandpa. I love you and will miss you.

“ There would be so much music I would have missed out on if it wasn't for my Uncle Larry. Booker T. And the MG's, The Ventures, he taught me how to play What'd I Say by Ray Charles. But I would like to think his favorite band was "The Boys" Gary Andrews Jr. , James Mitchell and Stacy Mitchell. When we got together that was the first question he asked. He would have that sly grin on his face and say, you boys gonna play some music. I've said this before and will continue to say it. My Daddy and Uncle Larry have forgot more about music than I will ever learn! I will miss him dearly! Love your nephew, Gary Jr.
