“ I remember Uncle Roy giving me a driving lesson in his beautiful green and white Chevrolet down a gravel road in Arkansas one hot summer day. I was feeling kind of special since we all knew his car was his pride and joy. Feeling pretty cool as a rounded a curve, I let go of the wheel. I had not driven a car with power steering before so we were both surprised when the wheels didn't straighten up. Fortunately, Uncle Roy grabbed the steering wheel before we ran in a ditch. Calm and cool as always, Uncle Roy said with a smile, girl, I better take over now.

“ Rest in Peace my dear sweet Uncle Roy. We love you so much! (Uncle Roy was so upset with me and another niece Sandy Blessing when we tried to clean the Hood of his Car with a "Broom". I was about 10 and Sandy was younger.). I will always remember that day. Love Sheila Phelps Inderbitzen.
